This figure is a detailed genomic map of the human genome, showing the distribution of various genetic markers across the 22 chromosomes and the X and Y chromosomes. The markers are color-coded: blue for SNPs, red for STRs, green for CNVs, and yellow for other variants. The map is oriented with the p arm at the top and the q arm at the bottom. A legend at the top left identifies the marker types. A scale bar at the bottom indicates the distance in megabases (Mb) for each chromosome.
